

About the Presenter:

Kathryn Murphy practices labor and employment law, emphasizing wage and hour, employment discrimination, employment contracts, and related litigation. Prior to joining Murphy, Hesse, Toomey & Lehane, Kathryn served three years with the Office of the Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. As an assistant attorney in the Fair Labor Division, Kathryn handled criminal and administrative enforcement of labor laws including wage and hour, public construction, health and safety, child labor, unemployment taxation, and worker's compensation insurance. Kathryn was also a member of the Office of the Attorney General's Wage and Hour Advisory Committee, Child Labor Task Force, and Home Health Care and Home Care Task Force.

Kathryn is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association's Labor and Employment Section and various other professional associations. She graduated cum laude from the Suffolk University Law School where she served as an editor on the International Law Review. Previous to her legal career, Kathryn also practiced as a certified public accountant.